Hi Charles,

Yes, your email is correct.

If EPA does not object to the proposed permit, any person may petition the EPA Administrator to object to the issuance of the permit within 60 days after the end of EPA's 45-day proposed permit review period. IDEM has not submitted the proposed permit to us for our review yet.

Please let me know if you have any further questions.

Thanks,

I'm writing to follow up on our prior communications regarding the Riverview Energy project in Indiana. Please see the e-mail exchange with IDEM immediately below (the full e-mail chain included for background), in which Jenny Acker of IDEM confirms the following:

"IDEM will be submitting a new proposed permit to EPA Region 5 for review after completing its review of public comments on the draft permit and revising the draft permit as appropriate. Therefore, the window for a citizen petition to EPA to object to the permit under Clean Air Act 505(b)(2) will not open until after IDEM submits the new proposed permit to EPA, and EPA does not then object during its statutory 45-day review period for that new proposed permit."

Earthjustice would appreciate EPA also confirming this timing for our petition to object. We realize your offices are closed but would appreciate a reply once you are back at work.

Thanks for your reply. To confirm, IDEM will be submitting a new proposed permit to EPA Region 5 for review after completing its review of public comments on the draft permit and revising the draft permit as appropriate. Therefore, the window for a citizen petition to EPA to object to the permit under Clean Air Act 505(b)(2) will not open until after IDEM submits the new proposed permit to EPA, and EPA does not then object during its statutory 45-day review period for that new proposed permit.

Mr. McPhedran,

The EPA concurrent (parallel) review of the permit began when the permit went on PN and ended 30 days later.

Prior to issuing or denying the permit, an ATSD (Addendum to the TSD (Technical Support Document)) must be prepared. The ATSD will document comments received during the public notice period, including testimony provided during the public hearing held by IDEM, and the responses to the comments. IDEM received the transcript, of over 200 pages, from the public hearing on January 3, 2019. Upon completion of the ATSD, the final permit (including attachments and appendices) will be proposed to the US EPA Region 5 for review.

It is difficult to say when the permit will be ready for EPA proposal.

The status of the permit can be tracked on the IDEM website at: <http://www.in.gov/apps/idem/caats/>

To view the document, choose Search Option by Permit Number, then enter permit 5 digit permit # 39554.

The status of the permit will change from PN to Proposed once the permit is submitted to the US EPA Region 5.

I'm writing to follow up on our comments of December 10 (see below and attached).

Could you let me know the timeline for IDEM's action on this permit? Also, has IDEM removed the permit from parallel processing with EPA, and will IDEM be sending a new proposed permit to EPA after reviewing and responding to public comments?

Thank you,

Charles McPhedran
